Building Bridges Between Italy and Japan

A Celebration of Academic Collaboration Between Italy and Japan

Bologna 1 September 2026 3:00–6:00 p.m.

University of Bologna - Sala del VIII Centenario - via Zamboni 33

About the Event

Over the past years, Toyo University and several Italian universities have built a vibrant and enduring academic partnership founded on interdisciplinary research, educational exchange and public engagement.

Bringing together scholars from architecture, urban planning, law, languages, environmental studies and the social sciences, this collaboration has generated joint research projects, Summer Schools, fieldwork, student mobility programmes and international dialogue.

Originally inspired by shared reflections on post-disaster reconstruction and the revitalisation of inland territories, the partnership has progressively evolved into a broader platform for cooperation addressing sustainability, resilient communities, cultural heritage, regional development and the implementation of the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals, particularly SDG 11 – Sustainable Cities and Communities.

This event celebrates not only the achievements of this long-standing collaboration, but above all the people, ideas and friendships that have made it possible. It also offers an opportunity to reflect on future directions for academic cooperation between Italy and Japan.

Building the Next Chapter Together

An open dialogue among speakers, participants and institutional representatives on future directions for academic cooperation between Italy and Japan.

Celebrating Partnerships, Inspiring the Future
Academic cooperation is more than the exchange of knowledge: it is the creation of lasting relationships, mutual understanding and shared responsibility for addressing the global challenges of our time. The partnership between Toyo University and Italian universities demonstrates how international dialogue can connect disciplines, cultures and communities, generating innovative ideas and tangible impact for future generations.
