DECREES

Art. 1 Subject

Selection procedure, based only qualifications and an interview, for conferral of 1 (one) one-year research grant for the carrying out of research activities at the School and for the research project indicated below, is now open:

SCHOOL of Science and Technology

Academic Discipline GEO/07 – “Petrology and Petrography”

Research Area: 04 – Earth Science

Research Project Title: “Equilibrium vs disequilibrium crystal-melt partitioning: Implication for timescales of volcanic plumbing system”.

Research Activity to be carried out:

Crystals showing both equilibrium and non-equilibrium features are widely documented in many volcanic rocks. When studying growth kinetics and crystal-melt partitioning, petrologists mostly focus on equilibrium due to its simpler theoretical and experimental treatment. However, a few experiments focused on non-equilibrium processes provided valuable constraints on the kinetics of crystal growth and undercooling, as well as information about how element partitioning may be influenced by crystal growth rate and element diffusivity. These are fundamental processes that need to be known to constrain the architecture and dynamics of volcanic plumbing systems, but few studies exist. The candidate will perform crystallization experiments at high pressure and high temperature conditions in order to constrain crystal-melt partitioning under disequilibrium conditions. The candidate will constrain the P-T-(fO₂)-t path of magmas by modelling crystal-melt partitioning. This can provide valuable constraints on the energetics of the processes driving the crystallization process at different conditions of P-T-fO₂.
