

SHORT CURRICULUM VITAE of Prof. MATTEO CERQUETELLA

Prof. Matteo Cerquetella graduates in 2001 in Veterinary Medicine (110/110 with honors), at the University of Camerino, then in 2004 he becomes University Researcher in Veterinary Internal Medicine and since 2020 he is Associate Professor of Veterinary Internal Medicine at the School of Biosciences and Veterinary Medicine of the same University. In 2020 he obtains the 2nd level University Master in Law and Management of Health and Social Services, Pharmaceutical Law, at Roma Tre University. During his training he spends periods at: Hospital Clinico Veterinario – Universidad Complutense de Madrid, SP, 2005; Klinik für Kleintiermedizin – Universität Zürich, CH, 2003; Royal Veterinary College – University of London, UK, 2003; School of Veterinary Medicine – University of Pennsylvania, USA, 2002. With regard to his main actual institutional commitments at the University of Camerino, he is Responsible of the Degree Course in Veterinary Medicine, School of Biosciences and Veterinary Medicine, he is member of the Board of the School of Biosciences and Veterinary Medicine, he is Head of the Small Animal Internal Medicine Unit of the University Veterinary Teaching Hospital, and he is Safety Officer for the Small Animal Division, of the same Hospital. His clinical and scientific interests are mainly related to the small animal gastroenterology, with particular regard to canine chronic enteropathies and canine and feline fecal proteomics. His scientific activity is documented by more than 180 publications in national and international journals, proceedings of national and international conferences, book chapters and patents (<https://docenti.unicam.it/pdett.aspx?UteId=586&tv=p&ru=PA>).

Matelica, 1st October 2022